WHY ACM?

Grinnell College is one of a select number of member schools in the Associated Colleges of the Midwest (ACM) consortium. As a result, choosing an ACM program can offer you several advantages:

- An on-campus faculty advisor for every ACM program.
- Course credits which should easily transfer to your college.
- Ease in the use of Financial Aid for your program.
- No application fee to apply to ACM programs.
- A long history of students from your college attending ACM programs.

CAMPUS APPLICATION PROCEDURES

The Application for Grinnell College Approval to Study Off Campus is available from the Off-Campus Study Office or online via the Grinnell website.

CAMPUS DEADLINES

December 11, 2009 - Deadline for the "Application for Grinnell College Approval to Study Off-Campus" during the academic year 2010-2011.

Once students receive Grinnell approval to study off campus, they submit the ACM application to the Off-Campus Study Office by the ACM program deadline date indicated in the ACM brochure or on the ACM website.
